Feed Energy President & CEO Receives Environmental Stewardship Award

Des Moines, IA – July 9, 2008 –Robert G. Riley, Jr., President and CEO of Feed Energy Company, is the recipient of the 2008 Individual Environmental Stewardship Award from Metro Waste Authority in Des Moines, Iowa. The award was presented to Riley at the organization's 2008 Annual Dinner.

Riley was selected to receive the award based on his lifetime commitment to bridging the gap between agricultural and environmental interests, and for his advocacy of environmentally sustainable agricultural practices.

Riley currently serves on several local and state agricultural and environmental boards and committees, including IaAgState, a strategic agriculture policy group, the Iowa Environmental Council, Water for Iowans, The Nature Conservancy, Whiterock Conservancy and the Des Moines Water Works. For the past 20 years, he has directed the operations of Feed Energy Company, an agribusiness firm primarily engaged in processing soybean oil co-products focused in feed, agronomy, dust control, fuel, and industrial and fertilizer applications. Feed Energy is one of the largest acidulators of soybean soapstock in the North America and produces scientifically balanced ingredients specific to their customers' needs.
